Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2012/02/17: CIA-RDP88G01332R000800860002-8

29 October 1986

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

25X1

SUBJECT: Meeting With Mrs. Martha Pennino, Fairfax County Board Supervisor, 28 October 1986

- 1. I met in private for half an hour with Mrs. Martha Pennino on 28 October at her office. She is the Fairfax County Board of Supervisor's member for the Dranesville District which includes Reston. Her attitude toward me and the CIA was very positive. It turned out that we had connections going back to the early 1970s and that she had had a close neighbor who worked at CIA who was killed in an automobile accident a short time ago. She had attended a post mortem award ceremony at the Agency for this employee.
- 2. After discussing for 10 minutes life in Fairfax County, the topic turned to CIA in Reston. Mrs. Pennino observed that Reston residents are a bit "different." She said that she had found this out while working on the street light issue. She said Fairfax County had a program to install a certain number of new street lights in each district each year but that Reston citizens didn't want to participate. They don't want their streets better lighted because it changes the atmosphere. She said this is similar to the "fence" issue.
- 3. As we proceeded to discuss CIA in Reston, there was never an issue about the fact that CIA intended to locate there. Mrs. Pennino said that the small amount of mail that she has received on this topic was pro-CIA. The issues were more cosmetic.

FILE: 45-9
EMIS 115-9
[UL La

25X1

All Portions CONFIDENTIAL

-CONFIDENTIAL

7. I left my telephone number with Mrs. Pennino and told her that we aim to be a good neighbor and if there were any topics of concern that arose with respect to CIA in Reston she should not hesitate to call me. 8. The meeting ended on an upbeat tone.	•	CONFIDENTIAL that we aim to be a good neighbor and if there were any topics of concern that arose with respect to CIA in Reston she should not hesitate to call me.
		that we aim to be a good neighbor and if there were any topics of concern that william F Donnelly

2

ORIG:DDA:WFDonnelly:be Distribution:

O - DDA Subj w/att.

1 - Ea. DCI, DDCI, EXDIR w/att.

1 - DDS&T w/att.

1 - D/FBIS w/att.

1 - D/OCA w/att.

1 - COMPT w/att.

1 - D/L w/att.

1 - DDA Chrono w/att.

1 - WFD Chrono w/att.

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2012/02/17 : CIA-RDP88G01332R000800860002-8

ounty Board and his leadtwo major regional transorganizations, Milliken, has played the role of meost notably in 1984 when skingly negotiated a landonal agreement on how to the Metro system in the indling federal support, mediating and low-key however, are not the y as running for Congress entrenched incumbent, i is discovering.

ank R. Wolf, the Repubcen is trying to unseat in 10th Congressional Dis-r-old

Pool

con-ıad a ut of

's of

peo-

s on the ition

acco

, Ali

d be ered.

lant

ate,

pull

ted

ent ity.

ers

the

er-

we

trict, has received much of the credit for both the Metro agreement and the airport legislation, and he has taken it publicly.

"It's like Howard Cosell taking credit for the football game while I'm down on the field playing it," said Milliken, who often uses humor to make his point or defuse a tense political situation.

Nonetheless, the issues for which Wolf is best known to his constituency are the same issues Milliken has worked throughout his political career, so Milliken's, challenge in running for Congress has been to define the distinctions.

"As people learn the differences they'll realize I'd represent them better because I'm more in keeping with their views," he says.

Milliken says he "absolutely" expects to win, despite polls that suggest such an outcome is unlikely. A poll released yesterday by the Journal papers shows him trailing 51 to 39, a considerable improvement over a poll two weeks earlier.

His campaign has been able to raise more than $650,000 so far, an unprecedented amount for a challenger in a district that usually See MILLIKEN, C5, Col. 4

JOHN G. MILLIKEN

"absolutely" expects to win

Laid-off welder John Blanks has hopes for new industry.

Contractors Rescind Request For CIA Facility in Reston

Officials Objected to 197-Foot Tower

By John F. Harris Washington Post Staff Writer

When Fairfax County officials learned last summer that the Central Intelligence Agency needed a communications facility in the Reston area "for reasons of national defense," many said it was their patriotic duty to consider the proposal.

When they learned that what the agency had in mind was a microwave communications station that would mark Reston's skyline with a 197-foot-tall, 27-foot-wide tower, they said, "No way."

After months of sparring with local officials, contractors for the CIA rescinded their request for permission to erect the tower this week, according to county authorities.

One of the contractors, identified in the papers as an Alexandria firm named Overseas Telecommunications Inc., proposed the facility to "connect a satellite earth station at Quantico with facilities at Langley, Virginia, and ultimately the White House," the papers show. Langley is the home of the CIA.

Fairfax County Board Vice Chairman Martha V. Pennino, a Democrat who represents the Restonarea on the county board and a leading foe of the proposed tower, said yesterday a ranking CIA official told her on Tuesday that heavy opposition to the tower forced the agency to find an alternative means of transmitting its signals.

The CIA declined to comment.

The tower would have been part of the Foreign Broadcast Information Service, a branch of the CIA, according to zoning papers. A CIA spokeswoman said the service monitors foreign broadcasts and compiles information for use by other U.S. agencies.

"I think they [the CIA] realized that that site was the wrong site," said John H. Thillmann, a Fairfax County Planning Commission member. "Let's be honest.... It was an eyesore, and it was right in the back yard of two communities and across the street from another."

Brian Wood, a spokesman for New Jersey-based Bell Atlantic, said that an Alexandria firm identified as as Overseas Telecommunications Inc. approached Bell Atlantic last summer, saying it was acting as a broker for the federal government in finding a location for several large disks to be used for microwave communications.

Bell Atlantic already owns a tow-See TOWER, C2, Col. 3

ivil service retirement r switch, starting in ne new retirement

PM pamphiet, called mployees Retirement explains how the basic nts of the new system, urity and civil service, ilso has a section on : nal tax-deferred nt program. ng of retirement, the Your Life Expo at the on Convention Center rom tomorrow through t's aimed at people onsidering retirement comes after that, and nealth screening . For details call Linda Department's Elia R. ne new head of the on Council of Hispanic ent Program s. Other officers are nton, Transportation; idiger, Justice, and ane and Patricio of Interior. iles has left the Senior es Association after four ts director of ion. He plans to split his veen public service serious road work.

89-4687

to oppose the proposed deal in a meeting set for Nov. 20.

But County Executive J. Hamilton Lambert said the county drove a good bargain to acquire needed

The trade calls for the county to give the development partnership 116 acres near I-66 and Rte. 50 near Fair Oaks Mall; as well as $5 million a year for 10 years begin-

29, a four-lane bridge over 1-66 several new roads around the development, and a cul-de-sac to pre- is scheduled Nov. 24. If supervisors vent traffic from using Legato Road decide to go ahead, construction as a commuter street.

is scheduled Nov. 24. If supervisors would begin in 1988. miles of South We

CHARLES A STORY CONTRACT

Contractors Rescind Request For CIA Facility in Reston

TOWER, From C1

er on the Reston site, but its base is only 4 feet in diameter and could not support the new apparatus, so the company applied to Fairfax County for permission to build a new tower to accommodate Overseas' needs.

When Thillmann told the officials that zoning approval for the new tower would take several months, he said, "They were aghast. They, said 'We've got to have a decision within two weeks.'

Their attitude was: 'We've got' to have this thing right away, and if we don't have it, we're going to build it anyway.

Thillmann said Bell Atlantic and Overseas officials at first did not acknowledge what federal agency they were working for. "You never knew who you were dealing with," he said. "It was a strange, strange "I'm not into this kind of cloak-and-dagger routine," Pennino complained, before the application was rescinded.

Thillmann and Pennino said they later learned that site was attractive to the CIA because it was near! offices in downtown Reston where the agency plans to move some of its operations. Many Reston residents have opposed the CIA move, saying the secretive agency is not compatible with the air of "openness" they want for their commu-

"We've never confirmed or denied that we are doing anything out there," said CIA spokeswoman/ Sharon Foster.

A spokesman for Overseas said vesterday that the CIA had instructed the firm not to comment. on the tower. The spekesman denied suggestions from some Reston opponents that Overseas was a dummy corporation for the CIA, Bell Atlantic tower on site where larger CIA communications tower was planned.

saying the firm has several million dollars in revenues, and deals with over 20 Fortune 500 businesses

As microwave communications technology has blossomed, proposals for towers have been increasingly controversial. Although no ill, physical effects have been documented because of microwave com- often needed munications, their use often conjures frightening images to the public, according to private specialists on microwave technology.

Also, because microwave communication requires a "line-of-sight" path from tower to tower, station to station, large, obtrusive towers are oposal upport

for final congressional of an international trade re uncertain, "I think peoin the mood to finish the

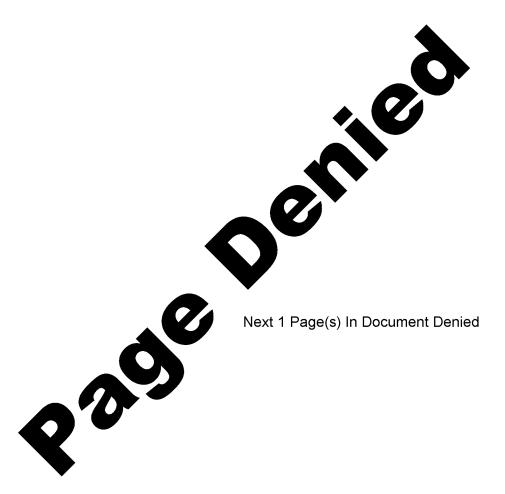

AROUND THE WORLD

Declassified in Part - Sanitized Copy Approved for

TEMPERATURES
ABROAD YESTERDAY
Observations made at Noon GMT

NEAPOUS ST.

AROUND THE NATION

STAT STAT

STAT